STEP 1

Start with clean, dry hair. Run a comb through your hair, removing any knots and tangles.

STEP 2

Separate hair into sections, securing hair with clips. Unclip the bottom section and take a one-inch section of your hair.

STEP 3

Holding the section of hair, insert the section of hair into the barrel; close the barrel around the hair several inches above your hand.

STEP 4

Slide the iron down the section of hair until it's almost at the ends.

STEP 5

Twirl the iron under, and wrap the section of hair around the barrel several times, steadying and guiding the iron at the tip with your other hand.

STEP 6

Count to five, then angle the iron so that the tip is pointing up and the handle is angling down, and release the curl entirely by pressing finger rest on the clamp while bringing the iron down and away from the hair.

STEP 7

Work through the rest of your hair. Alternate the direction of the curl as you work your way through each section for more natural looking curls

TIPS FROM THE PROS

A larger iron (such as one with a one-inch barrel) is the most versatile, allowing you to create everything from loose waves to tighter curls.
